whether there ever existed a genuine sociological school of thought based on interactionism at the university of chicago and whether herbert blumer misinterpreted the major thrust of george herbert mead's thought this title addresses these questions

zen and the art of local history is an engaging interactive conversation that conveys the exciting nature of local history divided into six major themes the book covers the scope and breadth of local history being a local historian topics and sources staying relevant getting it right writing history history organizations each chapter features one of carol kammen's memorable editorials from history news her editorial is a call each is followed by a response from one of more than five dozen prominent players in state and local history these respondents include local and public historians archivists volunteers and history professionals across the kaleidoscopic spectrum of local history among this group are katherine kane robert bob richmond charlie bryan and cinnamon catlin legutko the result is a series of dialogues on important topics in the field of local history this interactivity of these conversations makes zen and the art of local history a unique offering in the public history field multicultural dynamics and the ends of history provides a strikingly original reading of key texts in the philosophy of history by kant hegel and marx as well as strong arguments for why these texts are still relevant to understanding history today réal fillion offers a critical exposition of the theses of these three authors on the dynamics and the ends of history in order to provide an answer to the question where are we headed grounding his answer in the twin observations that the world is becoming increasingly multicultural and increasingly unified fillion reasserts the task of the speculative philosophy of history as it had been understood by German philosophy the articulation and understanding the historical process as a developmental whole fillion s interpretation engages many recent strands of social and political thought in order to provide a new understanding of current events and possible futures grounded in the understanding of the dynamics of the past and the present provided by Kant Hegel and Marx the result is a rich and timely answer to the question of where our world is headed today published in English

This book is intended for gay lesbian bisexual transgender and non gay readers it is divided into three sections oc on being gay oco oc on being politically correct oco and oc on being gay in the real world oco section i oc on being gay oco focuses almost exclusively on what it means to be gay the kinds of discrimination gays and lesbians face in their daily routines and lives and how to face those issues of inequality discrimination and bigotry section ii oc on being politically correct oco is directed toward contemporary issues within the gay community and presents a number of controversial topics that are hotly debated among gays and lesbians section iii oc on being gay in the real world oco focuses on issues that affect gay men lesbians and bisexuals as they try to live effectually in the prevailing majority community this section includes several essays that are not necessarily gay specific but can apply to people of every orientation section iii emphasizes that all people regardless of orientation race religion gender nationality or ethnic background share the same hopes fears dreams and desires John Arthur Maddux writes in the introduction of his book read this book with an open mind you never know what you might learn or re learn from a new perspective learning is essential to growth and if it ceases to be so our hope for social environmental and political change will be thwarted and we may find ourselves no better off than our primordial ancestors who lived in intellectual darkness and superstition for an author photo and bio and a sample read visit bosonbooks.com

In an ever shrinking world the need for a global perspective in dealing with the modern world has become acute this book attempts to provide such a perspective by investigating the major changes in geopolitics and world economy during the past 500 years however compact it enables us to understand the present unravelling of communism and the growing challenge from Asia to Western superiority it is shown that in so many ways the problems of the contemporary world spring from the unprecedented era of Western domination which the non Western world is now trying to unlive

Public controversies such as those about the distribution of goods between rich and poor trade and population policies allocation of medical resources and the tradeoff between environmental protection and economic efficiency often hinge on fundamental views about how we ought to make decisions timt affect each other that is what principles we ought to follow efforts to find an acceptable public philosophy a set of such principles on which people might agree have foundered because of disagreement among philosophers and others who are concerned with such issues one view which I shall develop and defend here holds that decisions that affect others should be made according to an overall evaluation of the consequences of each option this consequentialist view is opposed by a variety of alternatives but many of the alternatives have in common a basis in moral intuition to take a simple example consequentialism holds that other things equal if we have decided that it is better to let a terminally ill patient die than to prolong her agony by keeping her alive then we ought to kill her
