despite significant financial investments the rate of development and pace of poverty reduction in developing and transitional countries has not always matched expectations development management typically involves complex interactions between governmental and non governmental organisations donors and members of the public and can be difficult to navigate this volume brings together a group of international contributors to explore the theoretical and empirical underpinnings of development management and to consider the prospects and challenges associated with it in the context of both developing and transitional countries referring to dominant norms and values in public and developmental organisations development management is tied up with the attitudes and perceptions of various stakeholders including government officials public sector managers aid workers donors and members of the public attempting to make sense of complex interactions between these actors is highly problematic and calls for new approaches models and insights based on cutting edge research the chapters challenge much of the previous discourse on the subject and evaluate the challenges and opportunities that it presents development management offers academics researchers and practitioners of public administration business and management international development and political science a comprehensive and state of the art review of current research on development management in the context of developing and transitional countries since the turn of the 21st century there has been a greater pace of reform to planning in britain than at any other time as a public sector activity planning has also been impacted heavily by the wider changes in the way we are governed yet whilst such reform has been extensively commented upon within academia few have empirically explored how these changes are manifesting themselves in planning practice this new book aims to understand how both specific planning and broader public sector reforms have been experienced and understood by chartered town planners working in local authorities across great britain after setting out the reform context successive chapters then map responses across the profession to the implementation of spatial planning to targets to public participation and to the idea of a customer focused planning and to attempts to change the culture of the planning each chapter outlines the reaction by the profession to reforms promoted by successive central and devolved governments over the last decade before considering the broader issues of what this tells us about how modernisation is rolled out by frontline public servants this accessible book fills a gap in the market and makes ideal reading for students and researchers interested in the uk planning system the trends and practices of public administration are ever changing and it is essential that they be appraised from time to time designed as a capstone survey of the field the state of public administration focuses on leading edge issues challenges and opportunities that confront pa study and practice in the 21st century beginning in the early 1990s africa has been experiencing a major ground swell of social economic and political changes an array of declarations and communiqués notwithstanding the crisis has forced indigenous peoples to become chronically dependent on international charity this is one of the greatest tragedies of the 21st century this book is a result of research conducted across africa beginning in 2003 that was invaluable in understanding the conditions and views of indigenous peoples who are the victims rather than the beneficiaries of land grabbing and infrastructure development the book highlights the impediments to the livelihoods that indigenous peoples had developed over centuries brought about by political change it also proposes various local and regional actions to mitigate this which aim to simultaneously enhance climate resilience productivity and access to adequate stocks goods and services this book provides a varied collection of recent research relating to small businesses in tourism in doing so it reflects the eclecticism of interest and method associated with this under researched and under theorised area of investigation topics range from the potential contribution of small firms to achieving social or economic goals to understanding more about business performance and growth as is common in tourism research disciplinary boundaries are routinely transgressed in the interests of gaining greater illumination insights from a variety of countries are offered sometimes as a result of trans national collaboration initiated specifically for this book the idea that international development aid needs to be better managed and coordinated gained currency in the early 1990s the increasing emphasis on management has resulted in the present vogue of managing for development results as one of the central tenets in the discourse on international aid but how appropriate are these ideas tools and techniques for non governmental development organizations ngos and how much does geographic context matter examining the current debate on aid effectiveness and the role of ngos in contributing to it this book highlights the critical importance of understanding how the global and the local interact to increase aid efficacy and develop more culturally astute ways of managing ngos with a focus on ngos active in sub saharan africa as case studies author frederik claeys demonstrates that ngos are not mere passive recipients of management knowledge and practices emanating from the global governance structure of international aid but actively engage with these ideas and practices to translate and rework them through a local cultural lens this process results in the emergence of unique hybrid management systems that combine the pressure to become more business like with the mission to satisfy the demands of the communities
