there is a notion amongst some academics that latin american liberation theology has had its day a dream killed off by the nicaraguan and salvadoran revolutions the 1989

demise of socialism and the end of history claims of the champions of capitalism however in this book petrella proves this to be an ill conceived notion and shows that this theology can be reinvented to bring its preferential option for the poor into the real world the actualisation of historical projects is possible by adopting the methods developed by the brazilian champion of critical legal studies robert unger doing so will entail the rejection of these theologians unitary concepts of a despised and rejected capitalism and a canonized and accepted socialism petrella argues for a reconstruction of these concepts and those of democracy and property too he closely analyses the differences in democracy and capitalism as practised across the usa and europe in support for the reconstruction of these concepts bringing about far reaching suggestions for the future of liberation theology in the chaos that is latin american politics what role does the catholic church play with regard to its clergy and its members how does the church function in latin america on an everyday practical level and how successful has the church been intervening in political matters despite the fact that latin american countries are essentially catholic nations philip berryman addresses these timely and challenging issues in this comprehensive unlike journalistic accounts which all too frequently portray liberation theology as an exotic brew of marxism and christianity or as a movement of rebel priests bent on challenging church authority this book aims to get beyond these cliches to explain exactly what liberation theology is how it arose how it works in practice and its implications the book also examines how liberation theology functions at the village or barrio level the political impact of liberation theology and the major objections to it posed by critics concluding with a tentative assessment of the future of liberation theology author note phillip berryman was a pastoral worker in a barrio in panama during 1965 73 from 1976 to 1980 he served as a representative for the american friends service committee in central america in 1980 he returned from guatemala to the united states and now lives in philadelphia liberation theology emerged as a response to the historical reality of latin american political and economic problems with the purpose of bringing justice and liberation to the masses this investigation concludes that liberation theology in spite of its timeliness and virtues has to a large extent neglected the transcendent due to its absorbing preoccupation with the historical and has emptied the gospel of much of its saving content by utilizing the kuhnian theory of scientific revolutions but going beyond it to include the social and ecclesial contexts of theology the broader historical and social realities neglected by kuhn this work contends that latin american liberation theology constitutes a shift in theological paradigms three aspects of the cognitive nature of the liberation paradigm are discussed theology as critical reflection on praxis theology addressed to non persons and theology of and for liberation the book advances a sociological understanding of theological knowledge liberation theology originated in catholic latin america at the end of the 1960s in response to prevalent conditions of poverty and oppression its basic tenet was that it is the primary duty of the church to seek to promote social and economic justice since that time it has grown in influence spreading to other areas of the third world along with bitter controversy about its ties to marxist ideology and violent revolution drawing on both english and spanish sources this critical study examines the history method and doctrines of liberation theology sigmund considers the movement s origins in political circumstances in latin america and provides case studies of its role in such events as the revolution and counter revolution in chile and in the revolutionary movements in el salvador and nicaragua examining the thought of major liberation theologians as well as the critical responses of the vatican sigmund shows that liberation theology is a complex phenomenon comprising a variety of kinds and degrees of radicalism he discerns a general trend away from the marxist rhetoric that has often characterized the movement in the past and towards the kind of grassroots populist reform typified by the basic christian communities movement
